- Logged and marked all 811 calls for the campus.
- At the Tom Black Track there was a report of pipes being hit while digging water lines for repair on the North side of the track. Traced in to panel c on the field. We unhooked the 3 circuits off the breakers and neutral bar. Looked up on the prints where they go and found they go to the stainless-steel utility box that is for the cameras and timing equipment.
- At Neyland Stadium South/G10 parking garage. There are some wires that will most likely need to be moved due to construction.
- Student Aquatic outdoor pool checking to see if the electrical contractor had started the bonding of the pool deck. Also, asked about the bonding of the nitch boxes. The GC is saying they would be bonded from the power circuit from the panel. Tried to explain the difference between grounding and bonding. Reported it to UT Project Design.
- Nursing we set up and drilled a small pilot hole inside of the manhole from inside to outside for the location of the temp. conduit for the temp. power for the crane and site power. We installed plywood over it, to stop the core bit from coming too far inside the manhole, where there was a possibility of wiring. (we did find a spot free from wires)
- Started running #6 bare copper wire from the rebar of the pool wall to the west new fence at the Student Aquatic pool. Later returned and ran 3 more runs of wire to both sides of the future gate and to the other side of the fence.
- Tom Black Track located 3 circuits in the camera/fiber box for power. (from the hit pipes trying to locate the water leak)
- Neyland Stadium South assisted the night shift in landing high-voltage wires in the new PMH switch and the new transformer. Along with grounding both and installing 30-amp fuses.
- NURSING on-site and worked with the Electrical Contractor; for the running of the pipe from the manhole to the temp PMH switch. Removed the plywood inside the manhole and drilled a hole to run the ground wire. Install the 4" pvc bell fitting inside the drilled hole of the manhole with the mastic on it. Reinstalled the plywood and pulled in the ground wire. The contractor started running the new temp pipe to the switch.
- TOM BLACK TRACK – removed the wires (circuit 2,4,6) from the panel, and back to the camera box on the track. Then made repairs to the broken pipe. Then, we did the same for the other broken pipe. Removed the wires (circuits 13,15,17) and make repairs to the pipe.

WEEKLY SAFETY STAND DOWN

HAPPY NATIONAL SAFETY MONTH!

I know we have covered the topic of heat related illnesses a lot lately, but that's because it is a large risk to not only our outdoor workers, but for all of our staff. The risk is so great that OSHA announced that it is implementing an enforcement initiative on heat-related hazards, developing a National Emphasis Program on heat inspections, and launching a rulemaking process to develop a workplace heat standard. This is in response to the continued record-breaking heat the U.S. has experienced over the last several years. The risk of heat related illness does not just occur outdoors, it can also happen indoors in places like factories, welding shops, and steam plants. Everyone should know the signs of heat related illnesses and how to treat it. Heat related illnesses are preventable by staying cool, staying hydrated, and staying informed.

Our local weather stations do a good job informing us when dangerous temperatures will be affecting our area. They use terms such as heat advisory, heat wave, excessive heat warning, excessive heat waves and outlooks, but what do they mean besides it's going to be hot?

Heat Advisory—A heat advisory is when the maximum heat index temperature is expected to be 100°F or higher for at least 2 days, and night time air temperatures do not drop below 75°F.

Heat Wave— A heat wave is when the daily maximum temperature exceeds 95°F or when the daily maximum temperature exceeds 90°F and is more than 9°F above the prior day's highest temperature.

Excessive Heat Warning—With an Excessive Heat Warning, the general rule of thumb is that the maximum heat index temperature is expected to be 105°F or higher for at least 2 days with night time air temperatures that do not drop below 75°F.

Excessive Heat Watches—Heat watches are issued when conditions are favorable for an excessive heat event in the next 24 to 72 hours. A Watch is issued when the risk of a heat wave has increased, but the occurrence and timing is still uncertain.

Excessive Heat Outlooks— Outlooks are issued when the potential exists for an excessive heat event in the next 3-7 days. An Outlook provides information to those who need considerable lead-time to prepare for the event.

Be prepared and plan ahead. Watch the weather and adjust your tasks to work when it is cooler if possible or plan for more breaks when adjusting work is not an option. Staying hydrated is critical when extreme temperatures are forecasted!

Don't forget about your pets when temperatures rise as they can experience heat related illnesses too.
